What is the Co-Curricular Record? (CCR)

A Co-Curricular Record (CCR) is a document that formally recognizes student participation in out-of-classroom activities that enhance student learning and personal growth.

Activities listed in the CCR Directory include student life programs, student leadership development programs, community engagement activities and athletics.

Academic credit is not provided for participating in these activities.

Navigating the Co-Curricular Record (CCR) website

There are two views of Sheridan’s Co-Curricular Record (CCR) website:

- student view
- public view

Both the student view and the public view contain the same content. However, the student view has the [My Record] tab which allows students to create a CCR record.

To access the student view of the CCR:

- Login to Access Sheridan (note: use your student login)
- Select the link: MySheridanCo-Curricular
- you will be directed to the student view of the site
- Notes: only students can access this view of the CCR website; students cannot access the public view of the CCR website through Access Sheridan.

Students can access the public view of Sheridan’s CCR website by visiting the homepage of the Sheridan website and:

- Select [Student Life]
- Under the category title “Be Active” select the Co-Curricular Record link
The student view of the CCR website:

Tab: [My Account]

Under this tab you will find the following information:

About the Program

- Sub-page: Co-Curricular Record – a definition of the CCR
- Sub-page: Directory of Activities – an outline of the information contained within each activity’s description and how to use the two most popular search features
- Sub-page: Make a Request - how to make a request to add an activity to your CCR record and how to request to add a new activity to the CCR’s Directory
- Sub-page: CCR Deadline Dates - a listing of the 2013-2014 CCR deadline dates
- Sub-page: Print a Record – the steps you need to take to print your CCR record

Account Information

- you can review/change your account information
Tab: [My Record]
Under this tab you will be able to:

- request to add a new activity to your CCR record
- print your CCR record
- view your pending requests, accepted requests and declined request
- de-select accepted activities that you do not want to have showing on your printed CCR record

Tab: [Directory]
Under this tab you will be able to:

- search for a CCR activity to participate in; there are four search features to choose from

Tab: [Event Calendar]
Under this tab you will find:

- an event calendar containing upcoming Sheridan events and events associated with activities listed in the CCR Directory

Tab: [Resources]
Under this tab you will find:

- Sub-page: Learning Outcomes – a definition for each of the 17 learning outcomes
- Sub-page: Self-Reflection Activity – a self-reflection activity is provided to support students as they develop of their targeted learning outcomes
- Sub-page: Career Centre Services – Sheridan’s Career Centre services can teach you how to incorporate your CCR record in your job search efforts
- Sub-page: F.A.Q.’s – answers to the most frequently asked questions about the CCR
- Sub-page: Volunteering at Sheridan – not all volunteer activities found on campus meet the CCR’s criteria for inclusion into the CCR’s Directory. Sheridan’s Student Leadership and Engagement department and Sheridan’s Student Union Inc. can connect you to other volunteer activities taking place on campus
- Sub-page: Contact Us – provides the names of the CCR Site Administrators and how to contact them

Tab: [Logout]
Under this tab you will be able to:

The public view of the website contains three tabs not found on the student view of the CCR website:

Tab [Student Login]
- this links students back to Access Sheridan’s login page

Tab [Validators]
- CCR validators login here to access their Validator profile on the CCR website

Tab [Verify a Record]
- Employers are directed here to verify that a student’s CCR record is authentic
Participating in a Co-Curricular Record Activity

When selecting a co-curricular activity to participate in, we recommend you following these steps:

Step#1: Go to the [Directory] tab and Search for an activity

By searching the Directory you will be able to find:

- What activities are currently available to participate in
- On which campus the activity takes place
- The duration of the activity
- The responsibilities involved in being a participant (note: this description also appears on the CCR record)
- The average weekly time commitment
- The minimum number of participation hours that must be completed before you can request to add the activity to your CCR record
- The name of the Sheridan faculty or staff member you should contact to learn more about becoming a participant
- The learning outcomes (areas of development) associated with this activity

You will be presented with four search functions, the two most popular are Category Search and Learning Outcome Search. The other two are Search by Keyword/Time Commitment and Search by Activity.

Category Search

- A CCR activity will appear under one category title only.
- Activities listed under a Faculty category may only be available to students in a specific program, please contact the activity leader for more information.

Learning Outcome Search

- Sheridan’s CCR activities provide students with the opportunity to achieve targeted learning outcomes as a result of their participation in the activity.
- The learning outcomes associated with each activity can be found in the activity description.
- Note: Sheridan’s CCR has identified 17 potential areas for development (learning outcomes). A list of these learning outcomes, which includes definitions and descriptions for each, can be found under the [Resource] tab.
Step#2: Contact the Activity Leader

Contact information for the activity’s leader is included in the activity’s description. Once you have identified an activity you are interested in, email or phone the activity leader to learn:

- If the opportunity to participate in the activity is currently available
- What is expected from the participant
- When so they need a commitment from you in regards to your participation

Step#3: Participate in the Activity

- Prior to starting your participation choose which learning outcomes associated with the activity you want to develop (depending on the duration of the activity, we recommend you choose one or two)
- We recommend you discuss with the activity leader which learning outcomes you have chosen to develop and discuss with them how you can develop those learning outcomes during your participation in their activity
- Make sure your participation hours are being tracked; we recommend you track your own hours to ensure you are completing the minimum number of participation hours

We strongly encourage students to engage in self-reflection exercises to support the development of their targeted learning outcomes.

Self-reflection is an important component of your personal and professional growth.

It provides the opportunity to:

- Reinforce our learning of new skills, knowledge and/or professional values
- Raise the level of awareness of your strengths and areas for personal and professional growth
- Helps you define how your experiences have led to your growth and development
- Transforms your experiences into further action when you reflect upon current goals and set future goals

Completing our suggested self-reflection exercise below will help you capture your thoughts so that you may reference them at a later date when preparing for job interviews.

You may want to include your reflection within an e-portfolio to highlight your professional growth and development.

Got questions? Get answers! email: mysheridanccr@sheridancollege.ca
We strongly encourage you to briefly capture your thoughts to the following questions:

What personal and professional growth have you experienced as a result of participation in a co-curricular activity?
(You may want to refer to the learning outcome(s) identified in your Co-Curricular Record)

Briefly describe how one significant/influential experience you had during the co-curricular activity supported your efforts to meet your learning outcomes.

Describe your next steps for further developing the learning outcome(s) you have targeted.
Step #4: Meet with the activity leader when your participation in the CCR activity has concluded to discuss if you have successfully achieved your goals

Your activity leader can assist you with identifying if you have developed your targeted learning goals.

Your activity leader may also help you recognize learning outcomes you have developed that you did not target at the beginning of your participation.

Step #5: Request to add an activity to your CCR record through the CCR website.

It is your responsibility to request to add the CCR activity you participated in to your CCR record.

Ensure you submit your request within the established deadlines.

Note: the CCR is not retroactive; if you do not request to add an activity to your CCR within the academic year you participated in the activity you cannot request to add the activity retroactively.

Step #6: Wait for the activity’s validator to review your request and make a decision.

Once the activity’s validator accepts, or declines, your request you will receive an email.

A validator will either accept or decline a student’s request to add an activity to their CCR record based on whether they have completed the minimum number of participation hours associated with the activity; the minimum number of participation hours is listed in the activity’s description.

If your request is declined and you would like more information on the decision, please email the CCR Site Administrators at mysheridancr@sheridancollege.ca
What are Learning Outcomes?

Students participating in co-curricular activities have the opportunity to further develop their skills, abilities, knowledge and experiences.

Students can identify which areas of development to target by referring to the list of potential learning outcomes for each co-curricular activity. This list can be found within the Co-Curricular Record’s activity descriptions.

Under the [Resource] tab you will find a downloadable PDF for each learning outcome.

Each document contains a description of the learning outcome and a list achievement statements for that learning outcome.

Students are encouraged to:

1. Identify one or two learning outcomes to develop through your participation in a CCR activity
2. Inform your activity leader which learning outcomes you have chosen to develop and discuss with the activity leader how you can develop those learning outcomes
3. Engage in self-reflection activities throughout your participation in the CCR activity as a means to supporting your development of the learning outcomes
4. Meet with your activity leader when your participation in the CCR activity has concluded in order to discuss if you successfully achieved your goals

When you submit a request to have an activity included on your CCR record, the CCR website will ask you to identify the learning outcomes you achieved as a result of your participation in the CCR activity.

The learning outcomes chosen will appear on your CCR record (note: a maximum of five learning outcomes will appear on the CCR record).
Requesting to add an activity to your Co-Curricular Record (CCR)

After participating in a CCR activity and completing the minimum number of participation hours, you must return to the CCR website and:

- Select the tab: [My Record]
- Go to “Add an activity to your record” and input the name of the activity you participated in
- Select the learning outcomes you achieved during your participation in the CCR activity (a maximum of five learning outcomes will appear on your CCR record)
- Click on the button [Add to Record] at the bottom of the page
- View the “pending” activity message once automatically redirected to the [My Record] page

The CCR activity leader/validator will review your request and will either accept or decline the request based on whether you completed the minimum number of participation hours.

If your request to add an activity is declined:

Students may request more information on a declined decision by contacting Sheridan’s Co-Curricular Record Site Administrators at MySheridanCCR@sheridancollege.ca

Note: declined requests will not appear on the student’s CCR record

CCR Deadline Dates for 2013/2014

CCR activities ending in the fall semester (Sept to Dec/2013)
- Students are to submit their request to add the activity to their CCR record by Thursday, November 28/2013 @ 4:00 pm

CCR activities ending in the winter semester (Jan to Apr/2014)
- Students are to submit their request to add the activity to their CCR record by Thursday, April 3/2014 @ 4:00 pm

CCR activities ending in the spring semester (May to Aug/2014)
- Students are to submit their request to add the activity to their CCR record by Thursday, July 31/2014 @ 4:00 pm
Printing Your Co-Curricular Record (CCR)

You do not have a CCR record until you have requested to have an activity added to your CCR record and it has been approved.

Once an activity leader/validator has approved your request, a PDF icon appears under the [My Record] tab.

You can click on the PDF icon and print as many copies of your CCR record as needed. Recommendation: print the CCR using a colour printer and on quality paper.

Note:
- before printing your CCR record, review your accepted and declined activity requests which are listed at the bottom of the page under [My Record]
- click on the PDF icon to confirm that the declined activities are not showing on your CCR record

Note:
- Alumni will not have access to the student view of the CCR website and therefore will not have access to their profile.

Alumni can request copies of their CCR record by emailing mysheridancr@sheridancollege.ca

The CCR’s Authenticity Code:

Each CCR record is assigned a 20 digit numeric code found at the top of the CCR record. Employers can confirm the authenticity of your CCR record by:

- Visit the public view of Sheridan’s CCR website (the URL is found at the bottom of the CCR record)
- Select the tab [Verify a Record]
- Input your 20 digit numeric code found at the top of your CCR record
Requesting to add a new activity to the CCR’s Directory of Activities

Before an activity can be included in the CCR’s Directory, it must meet the following five criteria:

1. Be co-curricular in nature and is not required for academic credit
2. Provides students with meaningful learning opportunities
3. Support and foster personal and professional growth
4. Takes place on or off campus and have an identifiable link to Sheridan College; activities can include volunteer opportunities and community initiatives
5. Meet Sheridan’s validation requirements; only activities sanctioned by Sheridan College and validated by a member of Sheridan College are eligible for CCR recognition

Furthermore, activities must be 10 hours or longer in duration and can be paid or unpaid opportunities for students.

Sheridan students, faculty and staff can submit requests to add new activities to the CCR’s Directory, however only those requests submitted prior to the start of the activity, or shortly after it has begun, can be considered for the current academic year.

Requests to add new activities to the CCR’s Directory can be forwarded to the CCR’s Site Administrations, Christina Wiggins and Diana Herholz via the following email address: mysheridancr@sheridancollege.ca
Using your Co-Curricular Record (CCR)

Having a CCR record gives you an advantage by:

- Supporting your credentials when applying for jobs, internships, scholarships, bursaries and awards
- Providing employers with concrete evidence of your motivation to take responsibility for your learning and personal growth
- Demonstrating your initiative to get involved and make a difference in your community
- Supporting your application when pursuing further education

Your Portfolio

You can include a copy of your CCR record as an artifact in your portfolio. You can colour print your CCR record from the CCR website if you are creating a print portfolio. You can also download the PDF version of your CCR if you are creating an e-Portfolio.

Where the CCR record is placed in the portfolio depends on how you are organizing your portfolio’s table of contents. Suggested sections it could be placed under include:

- Community Involvement / Volunteerism
- Co-Curricular Activities
- Certificates

Contact Sheridan’s Career Centre to schedule an appointment to meet with an Employment Consultant, they will provide you with guidance in the development of your portfolio.

Your Search for Work

A survey found that 41% of employers said they would consider volunteer work as important as paid work. 20% of employers said they have made a hiring decision based on volunteer work.

It is important to include volunteer work experience on your resume because it shows initiative and it can also lead to securing paid work in your field of interest.

Your Resume

You are strongly encouraged to list your CCR activities on your resumes under the heading:

- Community Involvement / Volunteering

Sheridan’s Employment Consultants can assist you with developing your resume and including your CCR activities.

Your Job Interview

You need to be prepared to discuss in an interview the learning outcomes you developed as a result of your participation in a CCR activity.

You should be able to provide specific examples of how you demonstrated those learning outcomes and be able to make the connection between the learning outcomes you chose and your career goals.

Sheridan’s Employment Consultants can assist you with preparing for a job interview.

Your Scholarship and Bursary Applications

You can include a copy of your CCR record with scholarships and bursary applications to further support your statements about your community involvement activities.

Pursuing Further Education

You can include a copy of your CCR record with your applications for further education to support your learning outside the classroom as well as your community involvement.
